Elsevier Journal Finder Tool

Elsevier's official online tool for finding the best academic journal for publishing manuscripts – available at <https://journalfinder.elsevier.com>

The screenshot shows the Elsevier Journal Finder tool interface. It is titled "Journal Finder" and "Find journals".

- 1. Match your abstract: A text input field containing the abstract: "Background: The accumulation of microplastics in inland freshwaters represents a growing ecological concern. This study investigates the impact of polyethylene particle concentration on phytoplankton biomass and community". A "Find journals" button is located to the right of the input field.
- 2. Find journals: This step is indicated by a red box around the "Find journals" button.
- 3. Open access agreement: A section titled "Open access agreement" with a sub-header "Open access agreement". It contains a text input field with "CzechElib" entered. Below the input field, it says "CzechELib" and "Prague, Czechia".

1. You need to enter an abstract in the search field.
2. Click the “Find journals” button to start the search.
3. You can select your affiliation from the drop-down menu — this feature will find CzechElib and the University of South Bohemia but currently indicates that no transformation agreement exists.
